Dear Roundabout:

I am spending the week near the above place, enjoying the country air. The days are warm, but the nights are cool and pleasant. One can hardly realize the fact of the difference in the atmosphere between country and town. At 1 o'clock, p. m., the thermometer is 66°. I am writing in the hall while there is a pleasant breeze passing through. After sundown it becomes very pleasant.

In my rambles through the day, walking and riding horse-back, stopping now and then to eat blackberries by the way in the fence corners, never failing to be on hand at meal times, and weighing three pounds more than when I came, gaining a pound a day. Whether this gain is in flesh or quantity of food I have eaten, remains to be told. The exercise and pure air causes me to eat. The eating, I care not what it is, or how much, does not disagree with me. At home, I care not how little I eat, every thing disagrees with me, causing me to feel "sorter, kinder miserable." This comes nearer telling it than I know how to do it, but enough about self.

In one of my letters, some time since, I said I would give some of my "ideas" of Frankfort, Franklin county and Kentucky. But I got "switched off" on the railroad, and got so much railroad in my head I could not write about any thing else. But as the road, so far as Franklin county is concerned, is out of the way, I will commence now on Frankfort and Franklin county.

As you know, I spent the winter in Florida. While there I met people from almost all points of the world. I learned something from all this. I found the inhabitants of every town working for their town. I found hotels "going up" at almost every station, on every road, over which I traveled, to accommodate people who should come into the State from other cold States to spend the winter to get out of the cold, ice and snow of their own States.

The people who go to Florida, as a general thing, are wealthy. They spend the winters there—the summer at different summer resorts in the North. Hotel-keepers from the North run the hotels in Florida in the winter, then hotels at some other summer resort in the summer. Every town in Florida advertises, each one their terms, in newspapers and circulars, and send broad-cast over the whole country and Europe. Besides, they employ one or more men and keep them on the road all the time, working up a "boom" for their town, by talking and distributing these circulars the year round.

Florida was almost unknown until the last few years. She commenced advertising, showing her fruits, &c., in the Louisville Exposition. Six years ago Orlando, Fla., did not have more than a dozen houses in it. Now she claims to have 6,000 inhabitants, with gas-works, water-works, street railways, two railroads running into it, and two more on the way.

Frankfort is the most beautifully located place for a city of any place, to my knowledge, on earth. The scenery is certainly grand. I never knew how grand it was until the four months I spent away from her last winter. On my return I stood and looked at the old hills, went on the tops of the hills and looked at the other hills, the river and the valley and the old town nestled close down under the hills, sleeping gently. I stood and looked and wondered why was it she was so "sleepy headed?" Why she did not wake up and shake off the dullness that had been hanging over her so long? How I have wished she would wake up; how, with my feeble efforts, I have tried to wake her up; how, at last, we all, with united effort, have got her to "open her eyes;" how I am praying, daily, she may "rise up" and get on her feet. Let us all lend her a helping hand in the future to get her up, as we did to open her eyes on the 6th. With a few thousand dollars "Old Fort Hill" could be made into a beautiful park, with nice "drive-ways" around each hill side, getting on the top from either side, laying off the top with walks and drives, with nice shade trees on each and every side, a man hired by the year to keep it in repair and look after it, keeping good order, allowing no drinking or drunkenness, having a place our wives, daughters and children can go on hot summer days and be out of the bustle and noise and heat of the city, being high above it, enjoying the nice, pure breeze that will always be there.

When the "old maiden" gets fully on her feet she will build street railways all over the city, with an inclined road to the top of the hill, where the servant can go with the babies, for a "nickel," and spend hours, and have the little ones high up in open air.

I think the City Council should look into this and purchase the hill—purchase it right away—and commence gradually putting it in shape, in the mean time being careful that there is no "axe to be ground." This should be the first thought in everything to be done, with any one who has the interest of the place at heart.

There is not a place, to my knowledge, better suited for a place of summer resort than some of the hills surrounding Frankfort. See Arnold's or Mrs. Tarton's. The latter place has a well of mineral water. With a first-class hotel here, or somewhere near here, I suppose the same water could be had from any of these hills by going deep enough.

There is capital in the world that is looking out for investment. The parties possessing it have no particular plan for placing same. Let us do our duty, there will be no difficulty in getting it here if we will only select men to all of these who have the interest of the city and county at heart. Let self be kept in the background. Let them be judicious, progressive men. Let personal preferences be cast aside. Whether we live in town or country, we cannot afford to elect "old fogies" to office of any kind. Frankfort is the capital of Kentucky. Any man who says, "Frankfort never was, and never will be, anything," is not fit to fill any office, from constable up. A man born and raised in the woods, and remaining in the woods, is not the man to run our county or city government. A man may be honest, conscientious and a man of sense, but, unless he is "up with the times," he is not the man we want.

Just to think what we have just gone through—barely getting the privilege of voting on a thing the people wanted by 1,630 majority—the P., G. & F. railroad. The charter says "the magistrates shall submit to a vote of the people," when five of them say they shall not vote on it.

The people demanded it. These five wise men said they should not have it. One of these magistrates, recently sworn in, has taken a very active hand against the vote just taken, has commenced dictating. A man, perhaps, who never was as far as Louisville from his home in his life, is trying to rule and control the future destiny of Frankfort, the capital of Kentucky. This is what has kept the place what it is. But, thank God, Frankfort has shaken the "grip" of all such fellows loose from her, and will never allow them to get hold of her again. They may threaten, kick and squirm, and threaten with their patronage, "and stop my paper." They will learn we will move better without their patronage than with it, for it is a dead weight.

Frankfort has had a "nightmare" on her almost since her birth, caused by just such patrons, whose trade and influence does her more harm than good. Let every citizen of Frankfort tell them we will never know whether we had or lost their trade, if the county has not pride enough for their county seat, and their State capital, and their neighbors in the capital, to throw out their inuendoes or insults, because they failed to rule and control them in every particular, because Frankfort had the manliness to be a unit and shake them off.

I, for one, learned in early life to "paddle my own canoe." These same parties have voted taxes on Frankfort for twenty years or more, for all their wants. Thousands upon thousands of dollars every year, and the first thing we ask for they say we are a lot of thieves and robbers, abuse and vilify us, and threaten us. I am glad to say the whole of the county is not in this shape. But a certain section of it, with some few individuals in other portions of it. But they have got to learn, and had as well do it first as last. Frankfort, from this date on, is "awake." She is a unit; that Frankfort and Franklin county are one family; Frankfort is the "boss." She has made up her mind to rule the household. She is going to rule in love, rule for the good of the whole family—her decision is final. The children must submit.

JOHN E. MILES.

Letter from Zeke Yocum.

FORKS ELKHORN, FRANKLIN COUNTY, KY., July 7, 1887.

Dear Nephew:

I'm stopping here for the present. I had made up my mind to spend the balance of my days at Bald Knob, but two small circumstances caused me to change my mind. One was leaving the Democrat party, the other was being in favor of the railroad tax. I would advise my uncle Dan Moore to emigrate at once, and stay away until the Knob gets her portion of the Blair Bill. The people are not bad there, but they don't know any better. Some of them don't want to know, for they stop newspapers, the greatest means of disseminating knowledge in the world. My prayer is that they may be forgiven, for they know not what they do.

A majority of the Bald Knobbers are in favor of seceding from Franklin county. Their plan is to cut off a portion of Shelby county, beginning at Stiver's Mills, on Six Mile Creek, running across, so as to take in Consolation, out to the State Pike, including Hardinsville, taking in Benson precinct, and making Hatton or Benson Station the county seat. The county to be called Mentor. I'm willing, provided Dan Moore is made County Judge, and the line is so run as not to include Consolation in the county of Mentor, and that some of the parties who were in favor of the railroad tax, but afraid to vote, shall never hold office of profit or trust in said county of Mentor.

I'm in favor of men voting their sentiments if the heavens fall, so that all the larks could be caught that are now on the wing. The voters understand your motives. Being silent won't do you any good. Wheelers never trust men who are honest, nor have respect for those who honestly vote their sentiments, though they may be wrong. But the man who is convinced that anything is right, but has not the moral courage to carry out his convictions, is unworthy of the name of an American freeman. I respect the voters who were opposed to the railroad tax and honestly thought they were right, as much as I do those who were in favor of said tax. It's wheelers that I'm after, who want office. The good God, good Devil sort of people, who are not certain whose hands they may fall into—policy men. If there are any warmer corners in the bad place below, I think that men who act deceitfully will get there. I have no reference to men who were honestly opposed to the tax. On the contrary I commend you for voting your sentiments. I'm inclined to think that, after we get the road, old Franklin and Frankfort will wake up, and when everything is prosperous, those who opposed the road will be like Sallie's husband was when the bear was trying to eat their baby. John ran up the ladder and left Sallie to do the best she could. She got an axe and killed the bear. After John was thoroughly satisfied that the bear was dead he came down from the loft and said, "I tell you, Sallie, didn't we give him h—p?" But the wheelers will not be entitled to as much credit as John was in the bear fight. The truth is, wheelers, you had better emigrate to Rowan or some other county, clothe yourselves in sackcloth and ashes, reform your lives and be somebody in the future. This is Zeke's advice.

A great change has taken place here since the recent vote cast for the new railroad. The place has been Democratic for a long time, and many have been opposed to internal improvement in any form. The citizens must wake up or they will be left. Poor old Bald Knob, Peak's Mill, Benson, and other places, who voted against the tax, will be ashamed of their action when they see Zeke Yocum, Dan Moore and others acting as directors of the road, and the price of coal reduced to 10 cents, delivered. There is one thing that will make me sad when all this comes to pass, that is, it may hurt my friend and brother George B. Macklin, of Frankfort, who is a good man. Stand it, my brother. You are aware that the Bible says "many are the afflictions of the righteous." If it does damage the coal trade, you will make it on the mill at the Forks. So let the above Bible consolation, and the prospect of doing a big trade with your mill at the Forks, console you in your old age. Zeke penned this for your special benefit because he loves you.

Whilst there are many things that make my heart glad there are some things that make me sad. The Bald Knobbers have you people of Frankfort charged with voting negro boys who were too young to be listed in the school list. Will the judges of the election in Frankfort write me a private note and tell me if it is so?

In Bald Knob there are a great many little fellows abusing and cursing Dan Moore for allowing the sovereign free voters of Franklin county the right to say whether they wanted the tax or not, and praising one of the county court, who voted against the freemen of the county saying whether they would tax themselves or not. Poor, weak mortal, what a statesman he imagines he is when he denies freemen the right of petition. The Czar of Russia pales in his serene presence. The poor little monarch wants to be elected again. After promising other parties if they would vote for a certain measure, which would put several hundred in his pocket, he was ready to vote the railroad or anything else; but when that illustrious day arrived he voted NO.

Have they caught Buckner yet? Do the Central Committee keep him tied? He reminds me of the snake that the farmer found frozen stiff, who after being tenderly cared for and warmed, sunk his fangs in the leg of his benefactor. Buckner was educated by the Federal Government which he labored so hard to destroy, and is now opposed to the Blair bill—saying to the poor men of Kentucky that their poor little ragged, dirty-nosed children shall not have the benefit of Federal aid. Freemen of Kentucky will you stand this? He received a classic education at the expense of that same government, but is opposed to the poor man's child advancing as far as baker. Stand it poor men, it will be the making of Buckner, but it will be hard on your poor little ragged, helpless girls and boys.

Good bye dear nephew. I shall be invisible for a week or so. From your dear uncle,

ZEKE YOCUM.

STONE KITCHEN, July 14, 1887.
P. S. Since the above was penned, I have heard that strangulated hernia is prevailing to an alarming degree among those (only) who opposed the railroad tax. I'm happy to inform you that Dan Moore is all right.

Please advise Drs. Hume, Price and others so that they may read up on strangulated hernia.

A Card from Mr. J. M. Wakefield.

We have been requested by Mr. J. M. Wakefield to publish the following card which explains itself.

FRANKFORT, July 11.

To the Editor of the Courier-Journal:

The dispatch in regard to the dissolution of Wakefield & West, and the retirement of Mr. West, is calculated to do the business of the firm injustice. No over collection by Mr. West has been found except in the single account of the Mason-Foard Company, and that has been paid back by Mr. West. The firm has not lost a cent so far as I know. West is away on business at present. The business is not at all disturbed in its running by the affair, but continues as usual.

J. M. WAKEFIELD.

Religious.

Rev. G. F. Hagby, of this city, is assisting Rev. F. W. Morgan in a meeting at Mt. Pleasant Church, this county.

Rev. George Darsie, of Boston, will visit friends in this city next month, and preach for the congregation of the Christian Church while in the city.

The improvements and addition being made to the Methodist Church will render it one of the most comfortable and beautiful churches in the city.

The Young People's Meeting is held in the Baptist chapel every Monday night at 8 o'clock. These meetings are very interesting and diversified in their character, and seem to be the means of doing great good. All the young people, without regard to denomination, are invited to attend.

The Free Excursion.

Editor Roundabout:

The excursion tendered by the owners of the Grace Morris to the sick and children of Frankfort, came off last Wednesday. Promptly at 4 p. m. the beautiful little steamer, with her palace barge, Annie, in tow, shoved off from the Custom House wharf, stopping at Macklin's wharf to take on the string band, then proceeded up the river as far as Clifton. The trip was enjoyed by all. There was not even a harsh word spoken to mar the happiness of those on board; and from the number complaining of hunger on the return, it must have been an appetizer. All expressed themselves as delighted, and thankful to the generous owners of the boat for their kindness.

In behalf of the committee I hereby tender our thanks to the officers and owners of the Grace Morris for their kindness; also to the young gentlemen of the band that furnished us music.

THOS. HUNTER.

EUREKA SPRINGS, ARK.,
July 8, 1887.

Editor Roundabout:

It may be a satisfaction to all who feel a pride in the triumphs, social and artistic, of Kentuckians abroad to hear that Mr. H. Berry and family, of Frankfort, have won the hearts and admiration of so many people during their sojourn at the Crescent Hotel, Eureka Springs, Arkansas.

At an entertainment on Wednesday evening, given in the spacious dining room of the hotel for the benefit of Eureka's poor, this gifted family, by their magnetism, rare gifts and culture, held in raptures, for two hours, a large and critical audience.

Three generations appeared in succession—father, daughter and granddaughter. Of Miss Nellie Orison's artistic merits, the people of her own town must be freely aware. The girl who can execute on the piano score after score of classic music in a highly professional manner; who possesses a perfect soprano voice, true and full of sympathy, and cultivated to a rare degree; who takes on no grand airs, but will follow an aria from Der Freischutz by negro melodies, with banjo accompaniments, is the girl that appeals to all hearts and heads. And the mother of so much that is charming and admirable, who can enthuse an audience as Mrs. Orison did with her own wonderful voice, is a rare woman. It would be more than human if Mr. Berry could contemplate his charming home circles without feelings of great pride. Mr. Berry closed the entertainment with a song which brought down the house. We will say adieu to these friends with deep regret, and trust the kind fates will soon send them back to us. Few things in life would give us more pleasure.

NO SPECULATION,

But a Safe Investment.

"Our doubts are traitors,
And make us lose the good we oft might win,
By fearing to attempt."

We often hear the lamentations of those who visited St. Paul six years ago and failed to invest, because they thought it would not grow much more. But stronger still will be the vain regrets of those who have a little money now, and fail to invest it here, because they have been so unfortunate as not to see St. Paul. The country is just beginning to realize what St. Paul has done in late years, and what a future it has before it. There is no city in the Union with its size, business and future prospects, where property is near as cheap.

The following comparative statement of real estate values, obtained from leading conservative agencies in the respective cities, during April, 1887, speaks for itself:

	Population.	Highest Price per front foot.	Highest Adjoining Business Property.	Residence.	Acres per acre.
Chicago	750,000	$6,000	$700	$7,000
Buffalo	240,000	5,000	350	2,000
Cleveland	327,000	3,500	500	1,500
Milwaukee	165,000	1,500	200	3,000
Detroit	155,000	2,000	300	3,000
Minneapolis	140,000	2,000	300	3,200
St. Paul	140,000	1,200	300	2,000
Kansas City	105,000	3,500	300	5,000
Indianapolis	90,000	800	150	300
Omaha	75,000	1,300	150	5,000
Toledo	60,000	1,100	100	1,000
Duluth	20,000	1,000	100	1,500

The "Twin Cities," St. Paul and Minneapolis are only ten miles apart from centre to centre; have only about five miles of a partly vacant space between them, and have a common corporation line between them therein. These cities, which in 1880 had only 41,000 and 48,000 inhabitants respectively, have now 140,000, possibly nearer 160,000 each, and the tide of immigration is pouring in faster than ever. Considerably more than one-third of the immigration of this country finds a home in the territory immediately tributary to

ST. PAUL'S IMMENSE TRADE.

Nineteen railroads run into the city, ten of these being big trunk lines, making it

The Third Railroad Centre in the United States.

The completion this year of the Minneapolis, Sault Ste Marie and Atlantic Road will give it direct communication with New York, independent of Chicago, and will put it one hundred miles nearer the Atlantic coast.

At the head of Navigation on the Mississippi,

And only one hundred miles from Lake Superior, it can laugh at the terrors of the Inter-State Commerce Law. The rich country all around is filling up more and more, and new railroads are springing into existence with wonderful rapidity, making still larger fields for its already immense wholesale trade. Its great manufactures are daily increasing, and it is rapidly becoming the centre of the STOCK-YARD AND PACKING INDUSTRIES.

There are more millionaires here than in any city of twice its size on the Continent. All the causes that have for the last five years operated to make St. Paul a great city, are working more strongly than ever, and, being in the centre of the richest and most rapidly developing part of the United States, St. Paul and Minneapolis

WILL SOON BE ONE IMMENSE CITY.

"By every argument that can be drawn from the past, by every present material condition, by the certain promise of the city's situation and surroundings, by every proof which has been tried in the experience of city growth, St. Paul feels assured that the era of prosperity now upon the city is to witness changes more astounding and more satisfying than those which have already made it the wonder and admiration of all, whose good fortune it has been to visit the city and in a measure become acquainted with her institutions."

We have a large number of Southern customers, and all their investments have either been sold out at a large profit, in some cases

Three Hundred Per Cent. Per Annum,

Or have largely advanced in value. An investment made with moderate judgment here is sure to net the owner from 25 TO 100 PER CENT. PER ANNUM.

Regular meeting of Albert G. Bacon Post, No. 33, Tuesday, July 15th.

A new and valuable, though simple and cheap, attachment to protect walls from the rubbing of furniture has been patented by Mr. Fredrick Barrows, of Haverhill, Mass. It consists of a rubber roller, to be screwed on the back of the article, so arranged that when it is shoved against the wall, the rollers will keep the corners or edges of the furniture from breaking the plastering. Bedsteads, divans, &c., to have two rollers attached. A valuable invention.

Major J. A. Grant went on duty as U. S. Store-keeper at the O. F. C. Distillery No. 113, of the E. H. Taylor, Jr. Co., relieving Mr. George Webb who goes to the Law School of the University of Virginia.

Electricity on the Rampage.

During a thunder storm last Saturday evening lightning struck one of the guy rods, composed of zinc and wire, which stayed the large smoke stack on Taylor's distillery above this city, and melted the wire, tearing it into small bits and that let the large stack fall, breaking at the roof, and in its fall it struck the small stack, carrying it down also. No other damage. Persons who saw it say that a ball of fire the size of a gallon measure exploded, making a beautiful display of colors and giving a sound like the bursting of a railroad torpedo, and a moment after there was a loud report of thunder which, it has since been learned, struck a new telegraph pole, shivering it considerably. It is also reported that a blaze of fire followed one of the steel rails towards the city, causing some commotion. * * *

Here is a nut for our lightning rod men to crack; as the distillery has one of the corrugated copper rods on it, but it seems that a zinc clothes line wire had more affinity for the electric fluid than three or four forked, gold-tipped points, which stood well above the guy rod. Brother Staggs, please rise and explain.—Mt. Sterling Gazette, July 13.

The distillery spoken of is the "Newmarket Distillery," owned by Messrs. E. H. Taylor, Jr. & Sons, of this city.

A syrup made of a pound of white sugar and a pint of vinegar is said to be a sure cure for the severest case of flux in eight hours' time.

Editor Roundabout:

In your last issue I noticed that you urge a movement on behalf of the citizens of Frankfort and the county to secure an appropriation to complete the capitol building. "Tis a consummation devoutly to be wished," but, when we come to inquire the reasons that militate against this undertaking, we find that a lukewarmness has existed that has chilled to death any effort that has been made by our representatives in the Legislature. It is to be hoped that the spirit of harmony, that seized upon our people and made the centennial and railroad projects successful, will again bind us together as brothers in another march against the "old fogies" and "moss backs."

Do not wait until the fever dies out, and jealousies, like ice bergs, rise among us. It has been my observation, in past years, that, although Franklin county might send her most ambitious and talented men to the Legislature, they would be abused as inefficient, because success did not follow their efforts, when the true reason of failure was the lack of encouragement from those who, after the effort, craved the loudest.

One man, even though he have the most brilliant talents, will be unsuccessful in any undertaking, as long as Jones stands back to see which side Smith will take, and, as soon as Smith declares himself in favor of the proposition, Jones says he would have favored it, but he will now have nothing to do with any thing that Smith has his finger in. There have been too many Joneses in Frankfort, and I believe the centennial marks the funeral day of this Jones family. Our Legislature meets next winter, and I think I can see a willingness on the part of our citizens to send James Andrew Scott to the Legislature without opposition. He is young, intelligent and active, and will be untiring in his efforts to obtain for Frankfort, the city of his pride, the proposition she has yearned for so long. Let us show, by our votes on election day, that Franklin county and the city of Frankfort can again lay aside the animosities of the past and tender to Mr. Scott our hearts and hands in his efforts to win for us the prize we so earnestly desire. FRANKFORT.

A Sensation.

Why is it that three bottles of B. B. B. are sold in Atlanta to one of any other blood remedy, and twice as much consumed in the South of Georgia as any other preparation? No one need take our word, but simply ask the druggists. Ask the people. They are competent witnesses. Six houses in Atlanta buy in five or ten gross lots, and some of them buy as often as every two months. Why these unprecedented sales, here at home, with so little advertising? Modesty forbids us making a reply. Had B. B. B. been before the public a quarter of a half a century, it would not be necessary to be bolstered up with crutches of page advertisements now. Merit will conquer and down money.

$1 WORTH $500.00

For four years I have been a sufferer from a terrible form of rheumatism, which reduced me so low that all hope of recovery was given up. I have suffered the most excruciating pain day and night, and often, while writhing in agony, have wished I could die. I have tried everything known for that disease, but nothing did me any good, and have had some of the finest physicians in the State to work on me, but all to no effect. I have spent over $800 without finding relief. I am now proud to say that after using only one bottle of B. B. B. I am enabled to walk around and attend to business, and I need not take $500 for the benefit received from one single bottle of B. B. B. I refer to all merchants and business men of this town.

Yours, most truly,

E. O. GARA, Waverly, Walker county, Texas.

KANOPOLIS.

on the Union Pacific Railroad, the direct route from Kansas City to Denver, 218 miles from Kansas City and 422 miles from Denver, picturesquely situated, overlooking the wooded banks of Smoky Hill river, in the center of the grandest wheat, corn and grass country in the world, destined to be the great railroad, commercial and manufacturing center of Kansas, because of its natural advantages, beautiful location and the many railroads building toward it. The Kanopolis, Fort Scott and Wichita Railroad will reach this town in September next, which will put Kanopolis in close connection with the immense coal, iron and timber fields of Southeastern Kansas, Southern Missouri and Arkansas. Kanopolis is the only town in Kansas that can boast of railroads running north, south, east and west across the State. Scarcely one year old, it has 600 inhabitants, seven factories, and thirteen stores, all doing well, and the finest and largest hotel in Central Kansas.

During 1886 fifty million dollars were invested in Kansas by men seeking homes and those desiring to make valuable investments. The greater part of this emigration came to central Kansas and west of Kanopolis, and is an indication of the vast possibilities open to a city that will prove herself worthy to handle the trade of Central and Western Kansas.

Kanopolis the Coming City. That Kanopolis is the coming city, and will eventually prove to be the great central city of Kansas, no one can doubt, who knows the members of the Kanopolis Land Company. They are all business men of experience, accustomed to success, and when they take hold of an enterprise it is to win. Kanopolis will not wait years for the natural increase of population to bring it into notice, as hundreds of other cities have done. She has natural advantages, and railroads, which other places have had to wait for. She is destined to be the future metropolis of the grandest State in the Union, and she intends the world shall know it. More than this, the Kanopolis Land Company will give land and extend other aid to manufacturers to induce them to locate here.

It is estimated that 2,500 emigrants are settled in Kansas every day. The Union Pacific and Santa Fe roads run crowded trains. Five years ago a man established himself as a druggist in a Kansas town. His stock consisted of about $70 worth of patent medicines. He took Government land to the extent of half a section at a mere nominal expense. A few weeks ago he sold half of his half section, which cost him $250, for $80,000. He is now a wealthy citizen in a flourishing city, and owns a quarter section in town lots. Such instances are by no means rare in Kansas. Other towns are growing as this one grew. Lands now worth $5 an acre will be worth $20 an acre in less than ten years. Over six hundred houses were built in one town during the building season just closed. Large sections of land in Western Kansas, which starved their settlers five years ago, are now productive as any in the State, and are being settled rapidly.—Kansas City Star.

THE KANOPOLIS LAND COMPANY OFFERS GREAT INCENTIVES TO MANUFACTURERS

who will locate at Kanopolis. The Kanopolis Land Company owns the entire townsite of Kanopolis and sufficient land adjoining for a city of one hundred and fifty to two hundred thousand inhabitants, hence it is to their interest to build up the city as rapidly as possible. They intend to make this the leading city of Kansas, and believe the best and quickest method is to encourage manufacturing, hence Liberal and Substantial Aid will be Given to those who will Establish Factories, Mills, etc., at Kanopolis. The most prosperous States are those where Agriculture and Manufacturing are side by side, and Kansas, considering her age, excels all other States in the Union in agricultural produce. The time is soon coming when she will surpass every other State in this particular. The Raw Materials, Coal, Wood, Iron, Lead, Zinc, etc., are near at hand, and hundreds of articles can be made as cheaply or cheaper here than in Eastern States, and will bring far better prices.

The State of Kansas, although in its infancy, raises OVER ONE HUNDRED AND SIXTY MILLION DOLLARS' WORTH OF PRODUCTS ANNUALLY TO EXCHANGE FOR ALL KINDS OF MANUFACTURED GOODS.

This sum will be quadrupled before many years, and factories located at Kanopolis will be in the center of the best agricultural State in the Union, and so much closer to the market where their goods are in great demand that the difference in freight would be a good profit.

"More people have become wealthy by the increase in value of real estate than in any other way." Everybody admits "there will be a large city in Central Kansas. Will it be the town where enterprise is unknown, or will it be the town alive and awake to its every interest? Reason and judgment say the pushing, enterprising town will win. Kanopolis is thoroughly organized for constant, persistent effort, and is backed by abundant capital. Wise men invest where conditions are favorable for rapid growth. Kanopolis excels all other towns in this respect.

The Growth of Kansas.

In 1860 the true valuation of the property in Kansas aggregated only $31,327,000; in 1870 it aggregated $188,892,000, and in 1880 it reached $575,000,000.

Harp. Warm and exceedingly dry. To the wife of Llewellyn Lee, a daughter. John Mitchell has the finest prospect for tobacco in the neighborhood. He ought to have. He has not bothered it any this season.

Jesse Tillett's big picnic, at O. B. Polsgrove's last Saturday, was a splendid affair. Only one little scrimmage during the entire day. Capt. C. Brawner orated around very considerably in opposition to the railroad tax.

We attended the informal meeting at Roberson's drug store, on Monday night last. The meeting was addressed by Jarrett Moore. The object of the meeting, as I understood it, was to raise funds to employ counsel to resist the tax in the courts as an unconstitutional measure, and, if not successful there, to take steps to create the county of Bald Knob, with Flag Fork as the county seat.

We are of the opinion, when our friends of the city join in with radicals, niggers and convicts to impose such a burden upon us as was done on the 6th of July, it is high time we were cutting loose from them.

Condensed History of Western Towns.

LAST YEAR a simple land mark on the open prairie.

NEXT YEAR from 3,000 to 4,000 population and increasing daily. People full of energy and all making money. Handsome streets and public buildings. Permanent improvements everywhere.

SPRINGFIELD, O., June 18, 1887.—Columbian & Co., Louisville, Ky. Yours of June 17 at hand. The history of all Kansas towns is, that all lots in a town plat were sold by the time a second railroad arrives, and as we will have another road completed in September the indications are that we will have a tremendous rush in a short time. We are willing to co-operate with you in every way and you may rely upon it that for some time to come all money received from the sale of lots will be used in securing factories, mills, etc.

Respectfully yours, KANOPOLIS LAND CO., J. S. CROWELL, Secretary.

FRANKFORT ROUNDABOUT.

Entered at the post-office at Frankfort, Kentucky, as second-class mail matter.

GEORGE A. LEWIS.
Editor and Publisher.

FRANKFORT, JULY 16, 1887.

It is a fact that is patent to all that the city of Frankfort and Franklin county owe a debt of gratitude that will be hard to repay to Judge Wm. Lindsay, Judge Alvin Duvall, Gen. Dan. W. Lindsey, and a number of others, for their earnest, patient and honest efforts to make the facts in regard to the railroad subscription known. They, by their plain, practical business talks to the people, brushed away the cobwebs of prejudice and opposition, and convinced scores and hundreds of voters of the absolute necessity for the new road, and satisfactorily showed the safeguards that were thrown around the proposition.

All honor to these good men say we.

Next.

Now that we are to have another railroad, and Frankfort's onward march has commenced in earnest, why should not our Board of Trade at once appoint an intelligent committee of live men to advertise the advantages of Frankfort as a manufacturing center, and offer to all manufacturing companies ground in and near the city free of cost sufficient for their establishments, with exemption from taxes for 20 years? As soon as capitalists see that coal and supplies can be had cheap and an outlet to market is secured over a sufficiency of railroads, the suburbs of Frankfort would not be sufficient to hold the manufacturing establishments that would be established here. What say you Board of Trade? The people are ripe for just such an advance movement as this. Try it.

Then Next.

The Mayor and Board of Councilmen should at once take the initiatory steps to establish a first-class college or university at Frankfort. The colored people will soon have one, but the white people are without either. The idea of a State capital without either a college or a university is terrible. People are too considerate to locate their families in a place where their children cannot be thoroughly educated. An appropriation of $20,000 by the Council for a grand university at Frankfort would be ratified by the people and place Frankfort far ahead of where she is now. Don't be afraid of improvements. The people are ready to move in force in this line.

Now that the railroad is an accomplished fact, the natural reaction from the intense nervous excitement in regard to the matter has set in. The danger now is that our people will rest satisfied with what has been accomplished, forgetting that this is just the entering wedge that is to open wide our gates to the tide of progress and prosperity, which, if taken at the flood, will lead to a grand era of success and happiness.

Let all our leaders and business men consult together and devise means to keep the ball of progress rolling. Don't let the old town get back into the ruts of the past.

One by one the heroes of the war are passing away. There is hardly a day but that we read of the death of some one who bore a conspicuous part in that dread arbitrament of arms.

The latest to join the long procession of departed heroes is Gen. Walter C. Whittaker, formerly a member of the Kentucky State Senate from the Shelby district, and a Major General in the Union army.

General Whittaker was one of those uncompromising Union men who helped to stem the tide and hold Kentucky true to her allegiance to the National Government. With his conferees, Gen. L. H. Rousseau, Col. Jas. F. Buckner, Hon. James Speed, Col. R. T. Jacob, and others, who were members of the Legislature at the time, he was successful in combating the arguments of those favoring secession.

No braver man ever drew a sword. He never knew what it was to blench from duty, though death stared him in the face at every turn. Of warm, tender and chivariac nature, he was one to whom women and children turned instinctively as a protector.

He had his faults, as who has not, but no truer man ever breathed the breath of life than Walter C. Whittaker.

Strew the sweetest of flowers on his grave and let the clouds lightly rest on the stilled heart of the dead hero.

Among the many lay workers and writers who have taken part in the grand work of the past few weeks, none have done more or better work than our old friend, John E. Miles. His plain, common sense talks, through the columns of the ROUNDABOUT, and on the streets, have done as much, if not more, than has been accomplished by any one man to bring about this happy result.

The people all knew that John Miles was an honest man, and that he would not misrepresent or deceive, and they listened, reasoned, were convinced, and acted on their convictions.

We hope we shall still have opportunity to give our people the benefit of the good counsel of such plain, practical, every day business men as brother Miles, in the new and onward march of our town and county to the brighter and happier future which is opening out before us.

The Courier-Journal has descended to a very small business when it undertakes to belittle and ridicule the great Southern Evangelist, Sam. Jones. If the C.-J. only did one hundredth part as much to elevate mankind and help them to a life of purity and religion as Mr. Jones, it might have some ground for its slurs. Christian people all over the State have been disgusted at the way that great and mighty sleet has acted on more than one occasion lately. They may be slow to manifest that feeling, but let the great daily beware; when once aroused, they can make their power felt even by such great(?) men as edit the C.-J.

Mr. Thos. Hunter attended the State Teacher's Association at Louisville last week and was re-elected Vice President from the Eleventh Educational District.

Col. E. C. Went says that the temperature of Wednesday afternoon was the highest he remembers to have recorded, being 99.4°.

The Board of Trade meets in regular monthly session on Monday evening next, July 18th. All the members should attend, as business of importance will be presented. Every business man in the city should be a member of this body, and attend its meetings regularly.

The memorial services, heretofore announced, in honor of the late Wm. Christie, Esq., of Lexington, were held at the Second Presbyterian Church in that city on Wednesday night last. A large crowd was present, and the eloquent and tender address of Dr. L. Beecher Todd was but a fitting tribute of affection to his life-long friend. Eyes unused to weeping were suffused as the eloquent speaker dwelt on the life and character of the sturdy old Scotch soldier of the cross.

As the City Council does not think a fire alarm telegraph necessary to the protection of property on the South Side, we would suggest that a hose reel and two men be stationed at some convenient point in the First ward, so that when a fire occurs over there assistance will be on hand promptly. As it is, when a poor man's little cottage takes fire over there it is a mass of coals when the fire department gets on the ground, owing to the slow mode of transmitting an alarm. Several fires have occurred over there which were never heard of at the engine house.

The lecture of Rev. Sam Jones, on Thursday night, was a magnificent success. His subject was "character and characters," and was handled in that peculiar style for which he is so famous. It was a plain, practical talk, and yet at times there were ideas that were as beautiful and sparkling as a tiara of diamonds. His portrayals of certain characters were so life-like and perfect that the individuals seemed to stand out, as living pictures, before the audience.

His definition of parties and partisans was inimitable, and his description of his own position in these matters was the climax in that direction, and set the audience off in rounds of applause.

The lecturer spoke for one hour and twenty minutes, and yet, so perfect was the sympathy of the audience with him, that the time did not seem half so long.

We are glad to say that he took occasion to denounce, in fitting terms, the remarks attributed to him by the Courier-Journal of Thursday. Not only did he not make the statement attributed to him, but he had no occasion and never dreamed of making it. He scored the C.-J. pretty thoroughly.

We regret that the audience was not as large as it ought to have been, and assure those who were not present that they have missed a rare treat—one that they may not again soon have an opportunity to enjoy.

We are glad to learn Mr. Jones has promised to return to this city in October or November and open the Methodist Church with a sermon, when the repairs on that building are completed.

Some portions of this county have been favored with copious and abundant rains, while others have become very dry, and the crops seriously endangered.

Master Will Freeman was so unfortunate as to have his left wrist badly cut by an edge saw, while at work in the mill of Messrs. P. S. Rule & Co. Monday morning.

Judge Wm. Lindsay and Gen. D. W. Lindsey will address the people of Scott county, at Stamping Ground, to-day in the interest of the Paris, Georgetown & Frankfort railroad.

At the public sale of Messrs. Collins Bros., near Peak's Mill, on Saturday, the personality brought good prices, but the land was not sold, a private offer having been received for it. Col. D. A. Peters was the auctioneer.

Mr. Charles Ellwanger, of the firm of Ellwanger Bros., returned from a visit of several weeks to Louisville, on Thursday evening of last week, bringing with him a bride. The happy young couple have taken rooms at the Capital Hotel.

The Concert given by Prof. J. O. Mauer and his pupils, assisted by Prof. Levasor, on Friday night of last week, was a decided success. Every one who was present came away well pleased. The Professor is thoroughly competent and impresses his pupils with the same enthusiasm that animates him.

An excursion train will be run from Louisville to this city to-morrow, leaving that city at 9 a. m., and arriving here at 12 m. It is expected that it will be filled with one of the largest excursion parties which has left Louisville this season. The train will return to Louisville at 6 o'clock p. m.

Our friend Lee A. Woodson, Esq., of San Marcial, New Mexico, had the misfortune to lose his little boy, Butler. His remains were brought to this city and interred from the residence of his grandfather, Mr. Dan. Lynch, on Sunday last. The stricken parents have our tenderest sympathy in their bereavement.

It is amusing to an outsider to hear the way the base ball enthusiasts account for the success or defeat of their favorite clubs. If successful they are pronounced the most wonderful ball twirlers, sluggers and base runners; whereas, if defeated, it is always charged that the rulings of the umpire were outrageous, and he a most corrupt and rotten old curmudgeon. So it goes. Vive la base ball.

We very much fear that the building of the big sewer through St. Clair street will produce considerable sickness, owing to the noxious gases that are thrown out by the excavations. Early in the morning the odor becomes almost unbearable. The contractors are doing very well now that the work has been gotten under way, but it should have been done earlier in the season in order to avoid the danger we speak of

The "Fashion" school desk, the adoption of which for our city schools we made a note of last fall, is again triumphant, being selected by the Commissioners of the Colored State Normal School as the desk to be used by that institution. The contract was awarded on Tuesday, the Sydney School Furniture Company, of Sydney, Ohio, being the manufacturers, and Mr. John M. Slavens, of Louisville, the General Agent for Kentucky.

Besides our own city schools, those of Lexington and other cities of Kentucky are using these desks, and they are pronounced perfect in every respect.

The Frankfort Base-ball Club is now the boss club in the Blue Grass League, having beaten the Georgetown and Lexingtons on their home grounds, winning four out of the six games played. The game at Georgetown Saturday afternoon resulted as follows:

Innings . . .	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	Total.
Frankfort . . .	2	0	0	4	0	0	2	0	—	10
Georgetown . . .	1	0	4	0	1	0	3	0	—	9

The game with the Lexingtons was played Monday afternoon, and the score was as follows:

Innings . . .	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	Total.
Frankfort . . .	4	0	1	1	0	4	2	0	—	12
Georgetown . . .	1	0	0	0	1	1	1	0	—	4

Messrs. Nelson and Hudson are of first-class battery, and showed by their work Thursday that they could easily have shut the Georgetown out without a score had they so desired. The batting of Dick Dehoney and the base play of Frank Buttmer, Pen Merchant and Will. Snider was first-class, while Gus. Mack took care of short field in fine style.

Pea Ridge.

Blackberries plentiful.

Prayer meeting every Wednesday night at 8 o'clock.

Bridgeport salted us down on the railroad question.

ROUNDABOUT much admired for the plucky manner in which it engaged in the railroad struggle—tooth, nail and claw.

Mrs. Goins, Mrs. M. Branner, Mrs. Ella Roberts, Mrs. L. Roberts and Miss Susy Boston, of Bellepoint, have been visiting in the neighborhood the past week.

Mrs. J. Graves, who has been visiting her parents, has returned home to Shelby.

Mrs. Lizzie Moore, of Stoney Creek, is visiting the family of Mr. Will Tracy.

The Sunday-school superintendent said that there would be a picnic to-day of Pea Ridge Sunday-school. An ingenious explanation is expected of him to-morrow evening. He ought to read the history of Ananias, Acts v.

Picnic unavoidably postponed. It is not a failure. The Ridge fails in nothing it tries to do. We supported Andy Scott—he was successful. We supported the railroad—what kind of a failure was that?

"Nothing is difficult beneath the sky. We only fail because we fail to try."

The heavy vote cast in several precincts of the county against the railroad was the result of a mistaken idea that voting against the railroad would help Frankfort. It is explained in this way, Georgetown wants the capital. If we build a railroad she could move it; but without a railroad she can't.

"Please put in the ROUNDABOUT that Captain — is at our house." No! Nothing less than a Colonel will be noticed in this column.

Bro. Roberts will preach here to-morrow at 11 o'clock.

Don't cut us off, Bald Knob. Let us be like the children of one family who, all having different opinions, yet look up to and love the same parents.

"SIR—I read the ROUNDABOUT, and have been very much interested in its railroad news. I think that, although it undoubtedly helped the railroad cause, it has not given credit where credit is due. While it may have been unintentional, it has most certainly slighted the efforts made by the ladies of the county. Now, I ask if you believe that the railroad would have got such a majority if the ladies had not helped?"

"As soon as I found out that the railroad would enable us to go to Paris, the home and center of fashion, in two hours, I determined to work for it. So I spoke to all my lady friends, who used their influence to induce their fathers, brothers and friends to vote for it."

"Two of my gentlemen friends, who opposed the road (one of them made speeches against it), said they would do any thing for me, so I got them to vote for it."

"I hope the ROUNDABOUT will do us justice in the matter, for without us, you could do nothing. You need not put my name in. I sincerely hope the railroad will soon be built, so I can get the latest fashions."

Yours,

Mr. Pete Quire went to Hart last week to stack wheat and cut oats.

Why any man who works for a living should support a party, at the August election, that believes in convict labor, when he can choose between three other parties, all pledged against it, would be hard to tell.

Our village has received some bills of a barbecue at Lancaster. Among the speakers the name of Judge W. Lindsay appears. The Judge is favorably known to us for his railroad speeches, and we followed him faithfully, but now he is to speak for a party that wants criminals to displace working men.

Gen. Dan. Lindsey ably supported the Judge for the railroad. Now if he will give us his views on the convict question, and support the Judge again, we shall give him the same attention we did before. A few lines in the paper, General, if nothing else.

The Bridgeport correspondent sees a defect in our school system. Only appointing those who make a life-work of teaching won't help the matter. There are so many lady teachers who certainly do not expect to make a life-work of teaching, and they will always get positions until the people quit electing chivalrous gentlemen for trustees.

There certainly is a defect somewhere, as one-third of the fines inflicted in gambling and liquor cases goes into the school fund, it follows that the more drunkenness and gambling, the better for the schools. From such materials what can be expected? It is good policy to erect a fine structure on such a rotten foundation? Uncle Sam has kindly offered to attend to our school matters for us, and furnish plenty of money to make it a success, if we will only say yes, but we dare not say it for fear the Courier-Journal will come down on us. So, being between the devil and the deep sea, we rather endure the ills we suffer than fly to others we know not of.

That convict labor don't pay the State is proved by the amount of the militia expenses for guarding convicts in the coal mines at Greenwood and Kensee.

The Warden's last report shows the number of prisoners received for the following crimes:

Murder, 100; manslaughter, 32; malicious shooting, 55; malicious cutting, 53; malicious wounding, 17.

When the people of Pulaski objected to the presence of these prisoners being among them, the militia were sent to drive out citizens to make room for convicts.

If the merchants of Frankfort realized that every convict employed outside the walls, in this county, reduces the number of their customers by displacing free workmen with convicts, who buy nothing to eat, drink or wear, they would call a mass-meeting to protest against convict labor in this county. Say, Mr. Merchant, how much profit do you make off of any number of working men, say 500, who never get any wages?

J. P. Bailey, Captain of the "Nettie," which has been on the docks at this place, launched her on Wednesday last, and left for "down the river."

It will be gratifying to the magisterial precincts, outside of the Capital city, to learn that the supervisors of the fish laws, turnpikes, pauper lists and game laws, met in solemn convocation, a few days ago, and unanimously ordered that hereafter such magisterial district would, with its own taxes, make its own improvements, thereby guaranteeing that the First district will not have the bulge on the others in the future.

Some of our citizens went black-berrying this week. They landed on a farm near Stoney Creek. The landlord came out and asked them their names, residence, &c., also if they had voted for the railroad tax. Upon being informed that they had, he very politely informed them that he could not furnish berries to parties who had assisted in voting an iniquitous tax on him, and invited them to leave his premises at once, which, of course, they did.

To our gallant Bob Franklin, a thousand miles away in Minnesota—"The land of Hoochooth and Minnehaha."

GREETING: Across the broad prairies and mighty lakes, and over the blue mountains and lovely valleys of the great North-west, your Frankfort and Franklin county friends, O Robert, send you greetings and hallelujahs on the wings of a splendid victory.

For there has been a mighty tempest in Craddock's "stagnant pool," and the result is that all the old foggy tubs and dirt rags scows have gone to pieces, and their wrecks line the shore in all directions.

Yes, we met the enemy on the 6th, under the sun of Austerlitz, and they are ours by 1,600 majority.

"Strike the cymbal! Sound the timbrel! Let all the land rejoice!" The fogies and fossils and all other "stick in the muds," must go—aye, have already gone, and joy go with 'em, but not half as much as they have left behind.

After this Frankfort will put on airs, for she has now taken the first grand, indispensable and infallible step toward inaugurating the boom that is to make her, in time, the loveliest capital and grandest manufacturing city on the continent.

Hallelujah! The day has been won. Indeed it seemed to win itself, "as slick as goose grease"—especially here in the great heart of the State, and emporium of the county.

Frankfort, hitherto long dormant and unaccountably apathetic, has at last aroused from her lethargy, and henceforth her march will be onward and upward—sic utur ad astra!

So here's to Bob Franklin, away over yonder at St. Paul. To triumph!

So say we all: "Here's to you

Bob," you and Johnny Miles and Billy Murray, and other knights of the quill, who did their duty nobly in the cause of internal improvement, and so saved Frankfort and Franklin county from the doom of an everlasting eclipse.

A Complete Cure of Cancer.

Gentlemen—I had a sore on my upper lip for eight years. Seven different doctors attempted in vain to heal it. One gave me a small vial for five dollars, which was a "certain cure." It is needless to say that it did me no good. About two years ago I became quite uneasy, as people thought I had a cancer, and I took a course of eighteen bottles of S. S. S.

The result has been a complete cure. The ulcer or cancer healed beautifully, leaving scarcely a perceptible scar. From that day I have been in excellent health the Specific having purified my blood thoroughly, increased my appetite and perfected my digestion. In a word I feel like a new woman, and best of all, the eight year ulcer is gone entirely. Yours sincerely, Mrs. W. P. CANNON.

Two Bottles Effect a Cure.

Gentlemen—My blood was in such a condition that on the slightest abrasion my flesh would fester, and sores were difficult to heal. I took two bottles of S. S. S., and after that any abrasion would heal on first intention, and my flesh was firm.

The Beginning of the End.
The beginning of disease is a slight debility or disorder of some of the vital organs, the stomach, the liver or the bowels usually. There are dyspeptic symptoms, the liver is troublesome, the skin grows lumpy and unhealthy looking, there are pains in the right side or through the right shoulder blade. The climax is often an utter prostration of the physical energies, perhaps a fatal issue. But the difficulty is met in time for by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is always effective as a remedy, and it should be resorted to at an early stage, there will be no reason to apprehend those injurious subsequent effects upon the system often entailed by entirely cured disease. Far better it is, also, to consider this safe remedial agent in liver and bile, and other malarial complaints, than outline and other potent drugs, which, even when they do prove effective for a time, ruin the stomach and impair the general health.

One of the most outrageous cases that we have heard of lately occurred at Woodlake, this county, a few days ago. It appears that two young men, whose names are Glass and McManis, of Scott county, had sent a young horse to Mr. Robt. H. Wilson to be broken and trained.

Mr. Wilson was handling the horse according to contract, when, it appears, the young men concluded not to have him trained and sent for him. Mr. Wilson sent them word that his bill for training would have to be settled before the horse could be removed.

The next day these young bloods came to the training stable, in Mr. Wilson's absence, and demanded the horse of the negro man in charge. He told them that they could not get the animal until Mr. Wilson came back or the bill was paid. They at once became very boisterous and threatening.

At this juncture Mr. Wilson put in an appearance, when these high-flyers whipped out their pops, cursed, abused and threatened him, finally giving him a part of the money and demanding a return of some of it. Mr. Wilson told them that he had no change, and started to the house to get it, and also to arm himself. Just as he got to the house, the men broke the stable door open, took the horse out, and mounting, took French leave.

The consequence now is, that Esquire Threlkeld has some four or five warrants out for the young gents, and will pretty genteelly lambaste them with the whips of the law.

Little Willie Culter, son of Mr. W. M. Culter, aged about seven years, while playing on a raft of logs above the pumping station of the water works, Wednesday afternoon, fell into the river and had gone under the water twice when Master Hugh Ayres Daniel jumped into the water and rescued him just as he was sinking for the third time. The little fellow made no noise when he fell in, and had not Hugh been sitting on the bank dressing, after a swim in the river, and heard the splash in the water, he would have been drowned.

The steamer Grace Morris, with the elegant barge Annie, gave the first of their free excursions to the sick and poor children of this city, on Wednesday evening. About one hundred and eighty persons enjoyed the benefits of the liberality of the owners of the Morris. The excursion went up the river as far as Clifton, returning about 8 1/2 o'clock. All who went express themselves as deeply grateful to those who gave the excursion. The Morris has done a graceful and worthy thing, for which the charitable will give them due credit.

One of the best crops of wheat we have heard of this season was raised on the Dudley farm near this city. It averaged 37 1/2 bushels to the acre, and was of the Mediterranean Hybrid variety. Mr. W. J. Dudley has about 200 bushels of this wheat for sale for seed.

Hot, hotter, hottest! That's about the size of it for the last three days.

An August Tribunal.

"Everything about the Supreme Court is impressive and awe-inspiring. Even the two trim negro men who sit at the inner and outer doors and noiselessly open them by means of a cord attached to the door-knobs, to allow persons to pass in and out, apparently perform that duty with a deep sense of their responsibility. The semicircular chamber, with its stately columns of mottled Potomac marble, its half-domed roof lighted by skylights, its substantial, old-fashioned furniture, and the rich upholstery of the sofas arranged upon the sides for the accommodation of spectators, recall historic scenes, glorified as they are viewed through the dim mist of time, and its walls seem ready to echo the voices of the past. The appearance and bearing of the nine elderly gentlemen who sit in a row upon a raised platform behind a long desk, clothed in their black silk robes; the absolute silence enjoined upon all not having to address the Court, and the subdued monotones in which the business is transacted, make one feel that here at least are gravity and attention befitting the dignity of a great government."

The above extract was taken from the American Magazine for August. The whole get of the magazine is first-class, and we commend it to our literary friends.

The Georgetown Times is in error in stating that the Frankforts played "two hired men" in the game at that place on Saturday. None of the members of the Frankfort Club are paid, and all are residents of this city. The pitcher and catcher, Messrs. Nelson and Hudson, are the two players referred to, and neither of them are paid a cent. Mr. Nelson has been employed as a cooper by Messrs. W. A. Gaines & Co. for some time, and Mr. Hudson is employed on the steamer Huston Combs, having made this city his home since last January. So the kick of the Georgetownians amounts to nothing.

If trustees would lay in a supply of fuel for our district schools now while it is cheap, and the weather propitious, a vast deal of trouble and expense would be saved.

We clip the following from the Courier-Journal of Wednesday.

The Times reporter met Col. F. L. McChesney, of Paris, yesterday, and interviewed him on the prospects of the Paris, Georgetown & Frankfort railroad. The Colonel and ex-editor is a most enthusiastic railroad man and gives it as his opinion that the construction of this road is already an assured fact, that the people of Bourbon county have become very much encouraged by the liberal support given to the enterprise by Frankfort and Franklin county, and that Bourbon will vote her subscription of $250,000 by a large majority.

Educational.

The County Teachers' Association have been invited to meet at the Arnold School-house to-day, and to unite in a Sunday-school picnic. It being the day set by law for the examination of teachers, the board of examiners cannot be present. It is hoped, however, that all who can will attend and enjoy themselves. Col. John L. Scott will address the meeting.

It was a notable fact in the late meeting of the State Teachers' Association that those counties having County Associations were in the lead in educational matters. Let us go to work now and make Franklin county the banner county. What do you say teachers and friends?

The County Association will meet at Mt. Vernon Church, Poe district, on the first Saturday in August next.

All teachers and friends invited, a good time expected.

The Association will meet at the Mink Run, or Anderson school-house, the 2d Saturday in August. We hope our friends in the neighborhood will work up these meetings and let all enjoy them. Bring out the children.

There is to be a Grand Union Educational Meeting of the 11th and 12th educational districts held, perhaps, at Pleasureville, in the near future. Notice of time and place will be given in due time.

County Superintendent.

Bald Knob.

Here are the names of our heroes:

Sam. N. Moore, Jephtha Johnson, Eli McDaniel, Geo. W. Moore, Geo. V. Harrod, Smith, John Carter, J. R. Cook.

Five years having expired, under the contract between the city of Frankfort and the Capital Gas and Electric Light Company, the price of gas to private consumers must be regulated according to the price paid for gas in cities and towns in Kentucky having an equal or less population than Frankfort. The average price would fix the price to private consumers in Frankfort at $2.41 per 1,000 cubic feet; but the company announce that they will not charge a higher rate per 1,000 than during the past five years, but will add 20 cents to each 1,000 cubic feet on all accounts not paid previous to the 10th of each month, in order to secure prompt payment. This company have operated the gas works of this city for five years, and during that time have been able to declare but two dividends, one a 3 per cent, and the other a 2 per cent dividend.—Argus.

FRANKFORT ROUNDABOUT.

Uncle Jim Butcher, an industrious and intelligent old colored man, died at his home in South Frankfort, on Friday last, aged about 80 years. He was known as a great and successful fisherman. He had the confidence and respect of all who knew him as an honest man. His funeral was preached on Saturday last.

Dr. S. F. Smith, of Frankfort, is announced as the Prohibition party candidate for the Legislature from Franklin county. He was the candidate for the same position in 1885 and received 384 votes, and may be elected this time. The election is working all over the State.—Southern Journal.

We learn that our friend, Dr. S. F. Smith, editor of the Truthful Witness, will be a candidate on the Prohibition ticket for the Legislature from Franklin county. No better man could be selected, and if elected he will make his impression for good during his service.—The Worker.

Dr. Smith, being a modest man, has made but little noise about his candidacy, and we give him the benefit of the above notices, so that his friends in the county may know that he is on the track.

On Saturday last a collision occurred between the fast passenger train over the C. & O. R. R., which arrives here at 9:45 p. m., and a freight train. It occurred nine miles east of Louisville, and fortunately did not result in loss of life. A freight train was on the side track, and a coal flat at the end had not been pulled far enough on the switch. The passenger was going at the rate of 35 miles an hour, when the engine struck the coal car. When the engineer and fireman saw the danger, the air brakes were applied, and they jumped from the cab. The engine was badly wrecked, and the train was delayed about five hours before coming to this city.

Among the Colored Citizens.

BY PEPPER POD.

We were so overwhelmed with joy over the result of Wednesday's election that we could not write. Feeling ourselves stockholders in the E. G. & F. R. R., we went almost a unit for the road, and expect to do the same way on the first Monday in August for you know who.

We were met by a would-be bulldozer on the streets a few days ago, but we do not mind that. We are not uneasy. We feel safe while we are in the right, and we expect to speak the truth and fear no danger with 'good will to all, and malice toward none.'

Rev. G. H. Burks was called away Thursday to attend the funeral of his aunt, Sallie Wise, at Lexington, who died in Louisville, very suddenly with paralysis.

Died.—July 8, James Butcher, aged 75 years. He leaves a host of children, grandchildren, relatives and friends to mourn his loss.

Died.—Willie, son of Tilley Owens, aged 2 years.

The dance at the U. B. F. entertainment on the 6th did not hurt or injure the churches very much, only one Baptist deacon and a Methodist steward were made sick. Oh! yes! two Methodist sisters had to act the monkey when they heard that old time tune, "Natchez Under the Hill."

The ministers and members of the Kentucky Annual Conference will hold a Big Camp Meeting at High Bridge, on the fifth and last Sunday in July. Come then with us, and we will do thee good.

The general topics of discussion now are what will be Col. W. O. Bradley's majority, and are we to have an infidel or a believer in the divinity of the Lord Jesus Christ as Principal of the Normal School? Some of each class have made application for the position.

Let us organize a Bradley Club at once, and go to work.

Something has touched the barkeepers hearts, for they are doing what the City Council would or could not do. They close up on the Lord's day. The street corners are clear. Now if somebody would close up Fort Hill on Sunday, what a time there would be in our city, oh! ye that burn incense on Fort Hill.

Miss Florence Yeizer has gone to Cincinnati, Ohio, to spend the summer.

Bishop J. A. Shorter, one of the bishops of the A. M. E. Church, who gave two thousand dollars to Wilberforce University, on June 15th, died of heart disease on Friday, July 1st. Peace to his ashes.

One of the most brilliant affairs of the season was the marriage of Mr. Anderson Rice and Miss Francis Lewis, at Big Bethel Baptist Church, on Thursday evening, the 14th. Mr. Rice is one of our first citizens, and is in good circumstances. He has everything necessary, at his new home, to make one happy. May long life and happiness attend them.

Rev. G. H. Burks, pastor of St. John's A. M. E. Church, officiated in his usual manner.

Mr. Monroe, of Lexington, has been elected as First Assistant Teacher of the State Normal School located here.

The Ladies' Exchange meets at the parsonage to-night. Come and help them.

There will be a three day's gleaning by the members of St. John's A. M. E. Church to raise means to pay the debts of said church, commencing on Thursday evening, 21st inst., at U. B. F. Park, corner of Clinton and Lewis streets, also opening of the boxes.

Saved the Baby.

Many young babies have eruptions and sore throat, sometimes baffling the most skillful physician. Frequently children suffer from some inherited malady, and the only and radical treatment of an absolute and powerful blood purifier can effect a cure; again the ailment may be from contagion. At any rate, the safest plan is to at once eradicate all poison from the blood, no matter what the cause. So wisely did Mr. C. C. Key, one of the most cultured men and intelligent farmers of Alcorn county, Miss. He writes the following pointed testimony of his experience:

CORINTH, MISS., Feb. 16, '87.

Gentlemen—Last November my baby, not then a year old, had a bad breaking out on his hands and body, accompanied by a very sore throat. I gave him some S. S. S., which I happened to have. When the family physician came, and learned what I was giving the child, he told me to continue it, as it was the best thing the baby could take. The doctor proved wise, for in a short while the eruption disappeared, and the throat got completely well.

The Babies Cry for It.

And the old folks laugh when they find that the pleasant California liquid fruit remedy, Syrup of Figs, is more easily taken and more beneficial in its action than bitter, nauseous medicines. It is a most valuable family remedy to act on the bowels, to cleanse the system, and to dispel colds, headaches and fevers. Manufactured only by the California Fig Syrup Co., San Francisco, California.
